Local Woman To Fight Meat Prices

Shoppers nationwide are up in arms over high rising cost of groceries, . . . and especially of meat. Upland's no exception. It's following suit and organizing a grass-roots organization to fight rising meat prices.

Organizer Alyce Laird of 233 S. Third Ave., Apt. B in Upland held the first city-wide meeting of ladies in Upland Library last week. It appeared that all those present had many experiences to share concerning the high cost of meat prices and how they'd used meatless recipes in an attempt to boycott buying any more meat. Suggest-tions were made about different places to get meatless recipes and someone remarked, "We better get organized because I don't think this problem is an overnight thing."

Mrs. Laird has been spearheading the local War on Meat Prices (WOMP). She and her husband have donated their own funds to have WOMP bumper stickers printed up which they will distribute.

Various action tactics were discussed by housewives at the meeting including:

-Participation in the proposed nationwide meat strike for the first week in April.

-A campaign to ask local restaurants to hold "meatless days" once each week.

-A campaign to mimeograph meatless recipes and send them home with school children reading "What You Can do to Help the War on Meat Prices".

Mrs. Laird jokingly said the reason she got so involved in WOMP was because she decided, "If you can't join them, fight them." She said she's gotten numerous phone calls and been contacted by many, many people who are sympathetic to the cause.

New Town Affiliation Prexy Elected

Mrs. Althea N. Correll was chosen as the new President of the Town Affiliation Association of Upland for 1973-74 at the fourth annual meeting of the organization March 15.

Mrs. Correll has served the Association as the Parliamentarian for the past four years and has made two trips to the Sister City, Mildura, Australia. She and Mrs. Douglas Black were the official representatives who extended the invitation to affiliate with Upland in November 1969. Her second visit to Mildura was made at Thanksgiving time in 1972.

Other officers selected to serve: Robert Nolan, vicepresident, Mrs. Joseph (Jeannette) Wechselsberger, recording secretary; E. Harvey Stone, corresponding secretary; Ian Richardson, treasurer. Three new directors who will serve two years are: Mrs. Rodney (Beatrice) Anderson; Jack Frost; and Councilman John McCarthy, who was reappointed by the Mayor to serve as the liaison between the city council and the association. Hold-over directors who are serving another year are: Frank Carpenter, Mrs. Douglas (Esther) Black and Mrs. Fred (Flora) Kushin.

These officers and directors were installed by the Mayor Abner B. Haldeman who significantly is a cousin of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, originator of the People to People program for International Friendship and Understanding, from which the Town Affiliation Association has grown to encompass city to city affiliations throughout the world.

A special musical treat was presented (in Spanish) by a quartet of young ladies from the Upland Junior High School, accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Carl Hess. Vocalists were: the Misses Ronda Marquez, Bryn Kirkpatrick, Kathy Skrob and Lisa Collins. Their numbers were: Una Valencianita, and Adios Muchachos.

The guest speaker was James Vigil of the Chaffey College Social Science Department who spoke on the culture and customs of the people of Mexico.

ADVISORY GROUP -- Dr. John B. O'Hara, council president, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Phillips of Whittier and Charles Robar of Upland are pleased to pose with piquant Brownie Scout Barbara Phelps during a recent Los Amigos gathering. This is an advisory group of leading citizens who are interested in promoting Girl Scouting. Los Amigos members advise, counsel and support Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council.

Spanish Trails Honors Scouts

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council recently held a reception to honor 45 Los Amigos members and their respective spouses in the spacious gardens and home of Mr. & Mrs. Edward Shannon, 13972 Eastridge, Whittier. Los Amigos is an advisory group of leading citizens interested in promoting Girl Scouting.

John B. O'Hara, council president, indicated "the Los Amigos group is unique in that the individuals involved represent persons throughout the 33 cities within the jurisdiction of Spanish Trails Council. The membership is comprised of civic and community leaders who are interested in promoting the Girl Scout program and have not necessarily been involved in scouting prior to this time. Another purpose of the group is to help advise, counsel and support Spanish Trails Council in its efforts to bring Girl Scouting to all girls within the council area."

Dr. O'Hara concluded, "that during the afternoon reception, girls representing each age level in Scouting took part, pointing up their particular interest and some of the many aspects of Scouting. Mrs. Joseph Axline, La Habra the immediate past council-president was introduced as the newly appointed Chairman of the Los Amigos organization."

Early Childhood Education: Profile

Ever since last November when the state Legislature passed Senate Bill 1302, the term "Early Childhood Education" has been widely tossed around among school district administrators. "The prospects of this concept are the most exciting thing that's happened to education in the 15 years I've been in the field," said Loren Sanchez, director of Special Programs for the Upland School District.

Basically Early Childhood Education is a plan to "completely restructure" the methods used to teach the very young. In 1971 a Task Force on Early Childhood Education was appointed by Wilson Riles, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, to design an early childhood education program for California's public schools. The task force gave the results of their research in a 63 page report. According to Dr. Riles, the program is a result of evidence that children haven't been learning soon enough. So the schools will teach more to younger students, and even drop the age requirement down a year to pick up pupils earlier.

Riles says, "Research findings consistently document that as much as 50 percent of a child's intellectual potential is developed before he reaches school age, and that 80 percent is developed before he reaches the age of eight."

Since children have the potential -- it should be cultivated, according to Riles.

The proposal passed the legislature but only the first two years are funded, rather than a complete five-year scale which Riles proposed to make the program all-inclusive by 1977.

It's a good possibility that if the program is successful, legislation will be passed in 1974 to finance every phase of the program.

The first year 12 percent of a city's youngsters in kindergarten through third grade can apply for funding. The second year, 20 percent of the youngsters in that age group will be involved and the funding will swell to $40 million. By 1977 or so all cities in the state expect to be offering public schooling to all children over three years, nine months old.

An initial $25 million was earmarked by the legislature for the program on a statewide basis. According to Sanchez, Upland's share will be approximately $30-$40 thousand and it will finance the program in just one of the nine existing elementary schools in the city.

With a May 1 deadline for approval on applications, Upland and every other district is working hard to meet the requirements for application. A first step was to appoint an Early Childhood Education Committee. A 34-member committee made up of administrators, teachers and parents was formed and has now met twice.

Sanchez explained that the committee was to recommend guidelines to be used by district personnel in planning, implementing and evaluation a program for elementary children. A State Department of Education publication on Policies for the program gives detailed steps which must be carried out in setting up programs.

The first meeting of the committee concentrated on developing a "needs assessment" to determine 1. existing conditions and 2. desired conditions. Ideally, the purpose of the program is to bridge the difference between the two. Last week the committee developed a questionnaire to be distributed to parents and staff district-wide which will help determine what the community thinks about the present K-3 program and where the emphasis should be placed.

Eventually the committee must make a needs assessment of all nine elementary schools to determine which school will be selected the first year. Criteria emphasizes selecting an "educationally disadvantaged" school. This is done largely on the basis of test scores.

Sanchez said a "more individualized approach" to learning is a prime plus of the program. The policy states that the adult/pupil ratio should be one adult to 10 children. Additional aides, volunteers and parents would be needed to assist in the classroom under the direction of the teacher.

Other aspects of the program include:

- Individualized programs -- each child to proceed at own pace.
- Eventually classrooms for individual age groups will be eliminated.
- Parent education and involvement.
- Wider variety of materials and methods.
- Older students will teach younger students -- Term of "teacher" will be expanded to include many different people.
- A comprehensive system of services is planned to meet the pupil's medical, dental, nutritional and mental health needs.

Multi-Family Dwellings: The Ledger Grows Here

By Patricia Reid
Of The News Staff

Scarcity of open land and rising costs of land and construction during the past 10 years has made the concept of "multi-family dwellings" ever more attractive to developers and tenants. "Condominium" has become a household word -- and a very popular concept recently.

Proponents of condominiums say that such multi-family dwellings offer maximum land-use value and serve to attract the buying public to areas where employment, education, recreation and public service facilities already exist.

The idea of community ownership has come into increased usage and seems to offer many advantages to developers and tenants. Three types of cluster developments already existing or being considered in Upland are: condominiums, Planned Unit Developments (PUD) and Planned Residential Developments (PRD).

Basically, in a condominium situation units are thought of as "cubes of space" and these cubes are separately owned -- rather than the lots. Tenants also share an interest in a common area.

In a PRD, there is division of ownership on the surface of the land in addition to joint ownership of the common area. (Usually this concept is referred to as "Town House Development" or "postage stamp" subdivision -- a series of small lots about each other in the manner of "Row Houses" which are common in eastern cities.)

By contrast, in a PUD situation, there is unit ownership of all the land. A Homeowner's Association owns the land and maintains the green space or common area.

According to Upland Planning Director Rod Anderson, there are four condominiums in Upland at present -- and one 60-unit apartment complex which is being converted to a condominium. The first condominium to be approved was "Granada Villas," located on Linda Way and Spencer Ave. It was completed in June, 1970.

Other condominium developments include "Orchard Lane," "Pineknolls" and "Braewood."

A few weeks ago the Planning Commission received its first proposal for a PUD. Anderson reported that the Commission reviewed the Preliminary Plan for 34 condominium units on 8.4 acres at the northeast corner of Mountain Ave. and 18th St. and gave its encouragement for the developer, Andrew Barkman, 325 N. Second Ave., to file for a Conditional Use Permit.

Anderson noted that the City Council passed an ordinance allowing for PUDs and PRDs in November of 1972. He said it was passed to make "another choice available to homeowners." By combining back yards the developer has a lot more flexibility and also developers have more freedom within the complexes and can have private roadways which don't have to meet the requirements of public street right-of-ways.

The ordinance set a table for the maximum number of dwelling units allowable in a PUD per gross acre.

There have been two reviews of PRD proposals for Upland. The request for a Conditional Use Permit for the first PRD is scheduled to come before the Planning Commission on April 12. Ninety lots are proposed by Upland Properties, Ltd., of Riverside, planned for the south side of Arrow Highway.

Last Thursday night the Commission heard the second PRD proposal which is planned for 144 units on 18.5 acres located between Mountain Ave. and Willson Ave., north of Sixteenth St. Matreyek Homes, Inc. of Upland is the developer and Robert Van Rookel of Redlands is the architect. No formal action was taken by the commission, but the preliminary okay was given to file for a Conditional Use Permit for this development.

GETTIN' TOPPED! -- The famous Grevillea trees lining Euclid Ave. got a few feet knocked off their top branches this week as city crews set out for some trimming. Public Works supervisor Harold Terry said the trees are topped about every 10 years. A mile of trees on the east side of Euclid between 7th and 11th Sts. are being trimmed this season.

The new business manager received a masters degree in Education from the University of Arizona and was business manager at the Morongo district for 8 years prior to becoming that district's superintendent.

Hardy, his wife Rosemary, and their son will move to Upland in the coming weeks.

'SENSE OF COMMUNITY'

Local Govt. Discussed At MAC Meeting

Dr. John Vieg, professor at Pomona College and Claremont Graduate School, addressed last week's Municipal Advisory Committee (MAC) meeting on the questions of local government now facing the body.

Vieg scrutinizingly looked out at the audience in attendance last Thursday night and asked if community residents at large were attending and supporting MAC meetings, or if just civic leaders and those who are most affected attend. He then pointed out that before the communities of Etiwanda, Alta Loma and Cucamonga could reach a decision about their direction they "must have a sense of community."

Considerable discussion followed this statement concerning a sense of community in the tri-communities. It was mentioned that the three individualistic communities were "together" in their desire against outside encroachment of their boundaries, but that a closer sense of joint identity was needed.

Dr. Vieg said, "The MAC is wrestling with a very serious, substantial problem in popular government." He presented his views on alternatives for local government and said: "The device of a city should never be used unless there's a genuine sense of community." He said it was preposterous to use the device of a city as a tax dodge or for some ulterior or selfish purpose.

Dr. Vieg approved of the establishment of the MAC and felt it was a sensible approach to help people think more systematically about the problems they face. He explained several options open to the tri-communities including:

- Formation of Special Districts
- Formation of multipurpose County Service Areas
- Form one or more Community Services District
- Allow area to be annexed
- Incorporate as a new city or two or three cities.

Dr. Vieg said an advantage of forming a community services district is that the tri-communities would have their own board of directors rather than being under the county Board of Supervisors.

Dr. Vieg emphasized, "Don't overlook the possibility that it could be sensible to consider annexation in part or whole to some of the neighboring cities."

Emil Hutchings, industry representative on the Council, asked if it would be sensible to have the MAC stay in existence and be advisory over a number of special service districts in the area. Dr. Vieg commented that he felt it would be "a very sound step for the next five years" if the MAC could "know the mentality" of the county Board of Supervisors well enough. He pointed out that a sense of responsible government is greater when the organization depends on decision making done by people you elect.

Dr. Vieg stressed that land use is one of the most important functions of local government and urged the residents to have enough local governmental authority to control the land use.

Bill Williams, MAC chairman, reported that petitions are being widely circulated for the expansion of County Service Area 50 and efforts are underway to expand fire and water services also.

Mrs. Arthur Bridge of Alta Loma was appointed to coordinate an approach to acquire a study of government alternatives open to the tri-communities.

Local Man Promoted To Lieutenant

Thomas Wickum of Alta Loma has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant, San Bernardino County Sheriff Frank Bland has announced.

A 10-year veteran with the sheriff's office, the 32-year old Wickum has been assigned as second-in-command of the West End Sheriff's Substation where he's spent most of his career. Joining the sheriff's office in 1963, Wickum served as a field deputy until winning a competitive examination and promotion to detective in 1966. He served for a time in the Juvenile Division in San Bernardino before his transfer to the West End.

After winning a promotion to sergeant four years ago, he served for a time in the Central Jail, San Bernardino, before again being reassigned to the West End.

Wickum's new appointment will become effective March 31. He will replace the late Lt. Al Stewart who was shot to death more than a week ago in a shootout in Cajon Pass.

Wickum and his wife Ann have three children.

COMMUNITY HISTORY

One of the most noticed and well known "landmarks" of Cucamonga is the "Old Stone Church" on Archibald. It stands proudly as the epitome of rough hewn structures made from the natural stones of the foothill area.

Apparently these large rocks were plentiful and used frequently in the late 1800s and early 1900s for construction in the area -- as there are quite a number of stone homes and other monuments. Humorists called the stones "Cucamonga Potatoes" which were deposited by glaciers some time ago.

The Old Stone Church -- (the United Methodist Church of Cucamonga), is 65 years old and doesn't show its age much at all. Thomas E. Kiracofe, minister, said he'd heard the structure had withstood "many earthquakes" and was very sturdy. The structure was started in 1908, with Henry Klusman, a cement contractor in the area for 65 years, supervising the rock work and casting the corner blocks, door castings and other detail work.

Story has it that the rocks were "laboriously hauled" by horse and wagon from the canyons of the San Gabriel mountains by church members. Barbed wire was used for reinforcement. Brick masons revere the task of working with these odd sized rocks as quite an art. There's skill involved in placing them so that the total picture is pleasing to look at -- much more difficult than plain brick laying.

Kiracofe mentioned that the stone church was much more picturesque a few years back when it had more lawn in front with a stone wall around it also -- the widening of Archibald Ave. took this landscaped green area.

The congregation is planning a 90th Anniversary Celebration this Fall -- the church will commemorate the laying of the corner stone of the stone church some 65 years ago and also the organization of the church in the area 90 years ago.

The church, which was founded by seven charter members, was, at the time in 1883, a member of a circuit composed of Ontario, Etiwanda and Cucamonga. The original building of the Cucamonga Methodist Episcopal Church, as it was then called, stood at Archibald and Baseline. A frame building, it was destroyed in 1887 by a disastrous storm.

The second building was erected the next year on the present site on Archibald and Church St. Parishioners traveled by horse and carriage up the tree-lined dirt road or walked on a pleasant path between eucalyptus and cypress trees to attend church.

The stone church was formally dedicated on June 6, 1909 by Rev. Frederick Miller.

On Oct. 20, 1968 the church had an 85th Birthday Party celebration which was celebrated with a homecoming of former pastors and members who'd moved away. The youth of the church presented an historical pageant written by Mrs. Reno Niles and a pit barbecue dinner was prepared and served.

Although the church has a "plan" for a new church building in which the Old Stone Church would become merely a Chapel, Kiracofe said without hesitation that the structure would never be torn down!

Every so often all of us wonder what was happening on this day in history 10, 25 or 50 years ago . . . it's always an interesting thought to contemplate.

The Upland News - Cucamonga Times is starting a column on Yesterdays in the city compiled from old copies of the paper dating from 1925. The first local newspaper started in 1895 called "The Valley Mirror." In 1897 the second newspaper was started which was called "North Ontario Surprise."

From Esther Boulton Black's History of Upland, it says that at the turn of the century, W.C. Westland consolidated two papers into the North Ontario News. Later the name was changed to Upland News. Upon the death of W. C. Westland, William E. Westland took over until Harry M. Guy bought the paper in 1928.

From 1932 until 1940, Vernon Paine and Mr. Guy owned the News in partnership, and then from 1940-1958, Mr. Paine was the sole owner. Mel Hodell published the paper from 1958 until 1967, and the Pomona Progress Bulletin took over from July 1967 until November 1967. The present owner is Bonita Publishing Company, a member of the Donrey Media Group.

Friday, March 26, 1926 (paper was semi-weekly, published Tuesday and Friday.)

The formal opening of a "hand-some new flower shop and addition of offices" was taking place at Armstrong Nurseries - 402 and 404 N. Euclid Ave.

The issue contained the usual personals, tested recipes, city news and Society and Club News. Atwoods Dept. Store was having a big "Pre-Easter" Sale.

There was a large article on the Opera House and the Community Players which would now have a home of their own. J.S. Armstrong Nurseries offered the use of their brick building located at Main St. and Euclid Ave. in Ontario.

The paper told about "new airmail service" in which letters will go from Upland to New York City in 35 hours and 10 minutes. It previously took 67 hours and 50 minutes. Postmaster L. N. Kirk announced that Upland through "rapid daily mail train service with Los Angeles will take advantage of the speedier air mail delivery to the east."

The paper also talked about the excitement the "Ford Road Show" created through the downtown business district. Ford cars, and various implements were shown. Herbie Wiedgeoff and his Cindarella Roof orchestra were also there though they arrived a little late -- but put on a jazz band program which delighted the crowd gathered at Municipal Park.

March 29, 1948 (paper then called "Daily News Herald")

Banner headline reads: "Letters Pour in For Upland Helicopter Mail Service." Upland Postmaster Orton B. Brady expressed amazement today on his latest report on the first air mail dispatch to go from the local office April 1. At least 2,000 letters were received. Two air mail dispatches are picked up daily. Helicopters take mail from Ontario Airport to LA post office. The postmaster promised: "Air Mail leaving here in the morning will be delivered the following day to any part of the nation!"

On a lighter note, 700 "happy Upland youngsters" participated in the second annual Easter Egg hunt sponsored by the Upland 20-30 Club. In all 882 of the gaily decorated eggs had been secreted on a lot at A Street between 5th and Campus Avenues.

Roomers at the Upland Inn were more than a little perturbed Saturday when a large swarm of bees had congregated immediately in back of the establishment!

We believe our Mayfair meat is the best. We know Mayfair meat prices are the lowest!

And Uncle Sam helps us prove it.

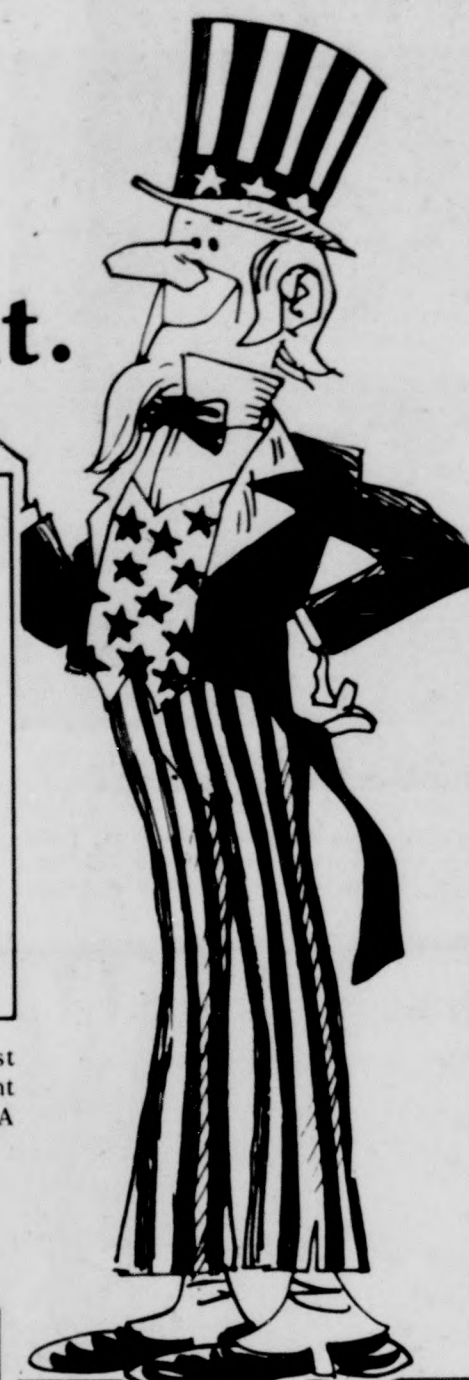

Mayfair has spent many years building a reputation for having quality meat. Quite simply, we think it's the best you can buy--even if you're willing to pay more. But that's our opinion. That Mayfair meat prices are the lowest among major super-market chains is not opinion. It's straight fact. Documented fact. We compare our meat prices (as well as produce and grocery prices) with all major competitors. To make the comparisons, we use the items specified by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics--the same shopping list they use to measure food prices across the nation.

According to regular comparisons made with this list, Mayfair's meat prices are absolutely the lowest. Take a few moments to study the accompanying charts and you'll prove it to yourself.

RETAIL MEAT PRICE COMPARISONS BASED ON U.S. DEPT. OF LABOR, BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS ITEM LIST, AS OF MARCH 20, 1973

WOMEN TODAY

'Small Business' Class Set

In an age of uniformity and chain stores, the idea of an old-fashioned family-style operation still has appeal. For women who have dreamed of starting their own kind of business, UCLA Extension daytime programs is offering a special course during the Spring quarter.

"Small Business: Careers for Women," which explores the basic principles needed for investing and maintaining the management of a small business, meets on Thursdays, April 12 to June 14, 7 to 10 p.m., in room 2278 Graduate School of Management at UCLA.

West End Guild Sponsors Preview

The West End Opera Guild will hold an aperitivo and preview of the opera "Carmen," April 6, at the Upland Assistance League Center in Cucamonga. The afternoon program for Guild members and their guests will feature John Arnold Ford, founder and executive director of Los Angeles' Educational Opera Association. Ford has appeared as bass soloist with the San Francisco Opera Company and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra in the Greek Theatre and Hollywood

Bowl presentations. Guild sponsored previews are regularly held before each of the two annual presentations of the West End Opera Association. Bizet's "Carmen" will be presented April 28 at Ontario's Gardner Spring Auditorium. The West End Opera Guild was founded in 1970 to support the West End Opera Association and encourage interest in the opera. For further information and reservations for the preview aperitivo call 982-6450.

Fonda As One Of Film 'Two People'

The 'Ideal And The Real' Subject Of Study

"Two People" is a Robert Wise film which begins so promisingly that you want to stick around in spite of the dull title.

The scene: Marrakech, the market place called Djemaa-el-fna, swirling with Moroccan life, with cobras weaving back and forth to music, with flame eaters, Berber dancers, the clink of bargains, the human pyramid of acrobats stacked on one another like apples. It begins with a Hitchcock-like scene of mystery (where is that trained pigeon going as he soars out over the market?). But a few minutes later we meet one of the "two people" and the mystery, although still unexplained, fizzles.

His name is Evan Bonner (no relation of Junior Bonner" of the film by the same name) and he is an American being sent back to the U. S. under wraps. We soon learn that he has deserted from the Army in Vietnam, has volunteered to go back to New York on the honor system to turn himself in for a court martial and prison term. The question of amnesty is certainly a topical one, although several pre-truce-statements date the film badly. And there are lots of indications that the filmmakers have done their darnedest to make it a Now film, with hip clothes, hip language, hip grass, and hip promiscuousness. But there is a curiously World War II feeling about this film; it is a more explicit version of one of those love-on-a-48-hour pass series, like "The Clock."

The second of the two people in the title is an alleged Vogue model who shares the pass with him. Her name is Deirdre McCluskey and she is played by Lindsay Wagner, a name most New Yorkers connect with mayors. She is on photo location for a Moroccan fashion layout with a magazine editor and a cameraman named Ron who is also her ex-lover and the father of her small son. Richard de Roy has unfortunately written a banal script for the picture, but every once in a while he gets off a good line, as he does in Deirdre's description of Ron -- "Ron never hurries -- you lose grace that way."

Peter Fonda, the supercharged antihero of "Easy Rider" and "Wild Angels" seems to be having trouble with his own image in this picture. The slow grin and bowed lips are still there, but his performance as Evan is tired, tepid, and unconvincing. Lindsay Wagner, in her first film, brings a certain ferociousness to their relationship and good looks to the role of the model. But her acting ability is minimal here. A real pro, Estelle Parsons, juices up the scenes she's in although her role as a shrill and silly fashion editor doesn't give her much to work with.

Robert Wise is a distinguished director who's had a varied career -- from "I Want To Live" to "The Sound of Music." He has done such a good job on the film's ambience -- exotic Morocco and rapturous Paris -- handsomely photographed by Henri Decae -- that it's a pity the romance of those Two People didn't take. Toward the end of the picture, Evan and Deirdre return to her place in New York, where the trees in front of her apartment are the pale, puffy green of early spring; later that same afternoon they say good-bye in Central Park, and the trees are the full spinach green of summer. It's a small technical error in editing, but it rather sums up "Two People;" it's not believable.

The Ideal and the Real, a study of late English medieval Arthurian romances and of satires on social injustice will be offered by the California State Polytechnic University, Pomona department of English and modern languages this spring as a graduate seminar.

The class will be conducted on Thursdays, April 5 until June 7, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Teaching the medieval seminar will be Dr. Thomas J. Elliott, Cal Poly assistant professor of English and modern languages. Elliott is a specialist in medieval literature and has had his translation of medieval bestiary published by the Godine Press, Boston.

In addition, Elliott's doctoral dissertation at the University of Michigan, Complaint as a Middle English Genre, will be published by Mouton Publishers of the Hague next year. This year, in May, Elliott will attend the eighth annual Conference on Medieval Studies at Western Michigan University. He has just had his article Middle English Complaints Against the Times: To Contemn the World or to Reform It? published in the Annuaire Mediaeval.

According to Elliott, there is a dramatic conflict between the Arthurian romances of Camelot, fantasizing a chivalric world, and the satires that imagined a different kind of utopia -- one where the poor had bread and the ruling classes were just.

Readings for the English seminar include Piers the Plowman, Sir Thomas Malory's The Morte D'Arthur and other versions of Arthurian romance.

For additional information about the seminar, please telephone (714) 598-4570.

Original Student Play To Appear In Scotland

An original one-act play written by Cal Poly, Pomona senior Bruce K. Holthaus will be performed in Scotland this summer at the Edinburgh Festival of Drama.

Holthaus' play, "There's No Sense Like Nonsense," was first performed last summer at Cal Poly as a part of a bill of original one-act plays by Cal Poly students. The young playwright, who is 22 and a drama major, also directed and acted in the original production.

The play, which is a fanciful entertainment which features three original songs by Holthaus and employs vaudevilian technique in its goal to reach audiences of all ages, received a complimentary review in the Los Angeles Times.

The production in Scotland will be directed by a Cal Poly alumnus Terry Dray, who will participate in the festival under a grant from the University of Washington. Dray and Holthaus have worked together closely at Cal Poly, and Dray suggested the play to one of the English actresses associated with the festival.

Holthaus has written several other plays, two of which have been performed at Cal Poly under his direction: The Portable Mind of Webster Lewis; and The Two-Dimensional Media Machine.

Holthaus has completed his undergraduate work at Cal Poly and is eligible to graduate this month (March). He plans to continue his studies at Loyola University next quarter where he will do postgraduate work in cinema and television with special emphasis in writing.

Holthaus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Holthaus of 8835 East Elm Avenue in Temple City. He attended San Gabriel High School.

Artist Exhibits At Library

An exhibit of contemporary art by Rose Kuper, Yoshio C. Nakamura and Paul Donaldson is now being shown in the main galleries of the Pomona Public Library. The exhibit consists of 68 individual oil paintings, watercolors and prints and will remain on display in the library through the middle of April.

Rose Kuper is an unconventional and innovative artist who has been painting since 1930. Born in Russia, she moved to London as an infant and came to the United States at the age of five. A graduate of Hunter College, she taught school and later became a concert singer before turning to art as a painter. Although she has worked with other artists, she believes she has found greater purpose as her own master and is self taught. Mrs. Kuper is noted for her technique of painting with printers ink on the reverse side of glass.

Yoshio C. Nakamura is dean of community services and chairman of the fine arts department at Rio Hondo College. An active artist since World War II, he is a native Californian and specializes in prints using extremely complex techniques.

Mr. Nakamura's works have appeared in more than 30 exhibits including the Burr Galleries in New York City, and most recently at Palos Verdes Art Museum. He has received more than 16 awards, including five first prizes in painting and graphics.

Nakamura earned his bachelor and master of fine arts degrees at USC. He also studied at the University of Florence in Italy, UCLA, LA City College, UC Riverside, Stanford University, Otis Art Institute, and University of Oklahoma.

Paul Donaldson is also a native son. He has been interested in art ever since he was a child and he started drawing as soon as he was able to hold a pencil. Not certain that he could sustain himself as an artist, he earned a degree in philosophy before pursuing a career in art. Specializing in watercolors, he is presently a member of the art faculty at Rio Hondo College.

The three artists are close friends and had a group showing of their work at the Palos Verdes Art Museum last fall. Their art may be seen at the Pomona Library from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays. For more information call 620-2038.

Ronald Barnes Elected To Theatre Board

Dr. Ronald Barnes of San Bernardino has been elected to the board of directors of the United States Institute for Theatre Technology.

A professor of drama and chairman of the department at California State College, San Bernardino, Dr. Barnes recently returned from the national USITT meeting in St. Louis. He will serve a two-year term on the board.

USITT develops theatre programs and conducts research. It is composed of consultants, architects, designers, industrialists and educators interested in the technical aspects of theatre.

For example, the Institute recently brought Czech stage designer Josef Svoboda to America to conduct a series of master classes for set designers on college campuses. Sandra Stiglin, CSCSB drama technical assistant, attended one of Svoboda's classes at Cal State, Northridge.

Braille Gift Book Available

Some 3,000 blind school children in the United States and approximately 300 young sightless readers in 24 foreign countries will be receiving an early Christmas present this year from the Braille Institute of America Inc.

Expectations, a 124-page anthology of current children's literature, is being distributed free to sightless children in grades three through six.

Highlighting this year's edition are eight popular children's books, two original stories, seven poems, two pages of embossed pictures and a page of "microfragrance labels" which, when scratched, release the essence of a scent.

The book is also unique in that it is one of the very few Braille books a blind child can keep and call his own. Most Braille books are distributed through the Library of Congress, and as with all library books, must be returned.

The actual $5 production cost of each volume is contributed by individuals, literary groups, service clubs and others who donate specifically for the publishing venture.

The material included in Expectations does not duplicate stories and books already available in Braille or Talking Books through the Library of Congress, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Parents of blind children, libraries or agencies for the blind needing further information on Expectations should write to Editor Betty Kalagian, Braille Institute of America Inc., 741 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles 90029.

FOOD

Beef Stroganoff, Professionally

When we heard that Betty Timko, the energetic restaurant manager of two of Ohio's Holiday Inns -- Perryburg-Toledo and Monroe -- had contributed recipes to a regional church cookbook called "Fascinating Ideas on Parade" we added it to our collection. And browsing through the cookbook we found Mrs. Timko's party-size recipe for Beef Stroganoff which she sometimes serves at the Inns for the "Dish of the Day." Here is our adaptation of it.

BEEF STROGANOFF

- 3 1/2 pounds top round beef
- 3/4 cup butter
- 2 pounds fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced scallions
- 5 cups water
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 cups commercial sour cream

Slice beef into 1/4-inch thick strips that are about 2 inches long and 3/4 inch wide, trimming away fat. There should be about 3 pounds lean beef.

In a large skillet melt 1/4 cup of the butter; add half the mushrooms and half the scallions; cook gently, stirring often, until mushrooms turn light brown and juices form in pan -- 5 to 8 minutes. Turn mushrooms and scallions with juice into a bowl. Repeat process with remaining mushrooms and scallions using another 1/4 cup butter. Wipe skillet dry with paper toweling.

Melt 1 tablespoon of the remaining butter in the skillet over medium heat. Dry meat with paper toweling and quickly brown, a small amount at a time, on both sides. Add more of the remaining butter as needed and remove meat to a 5-quart saucepan. Add 4 cups of the water, bouillon cubes and lemon juice. Bring to a boil, skim top, reduce heat and simmer just until meat is tender -- 15 to 20 minutes. Do not overcook. Add mushrooms and scallions with juices, salt and pepper.

Gradually stir remaining 1 cup water into flour, keeping smooth. Add to meat mixture and cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in sour cream (Sauce will be thin.) Reheat gently; do not boil.

Makes 12 servings.
Note: Dish may be made a day ahead through the cooking of the meat. Refrigerate meat with cooking liquid; separately refrigerate mushroom mixture; finish dish next day.

BAKED HAMBURGERS

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 Tablespoon minced onion
 - 1 egg, slightly beaten
 - 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
 - 1 cup (about 5 1/4 ozs.) blue cheese, crumbled
 - 8 slices onion
 - 1 cup bottled barbecue sauce
- Mix together all the ingredients except onion slices and sauce. Shape into 8 inch-thick patties. Arrange in a lightly buttered 8-inch square baking dish. Place an onion slice on each patty. Pour barbecue sauce over all. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes.

Question: When Is A Bargain A Poor Buy?

Anything you buy is only a bargain if you get your money's worth. And price isn't the only measurement. For example, a low priced suit or dress that you wear infrequently is often a much poorer buy than a more expensive one that you can wear often.

Sometimes it's not only the price you have to consider, but the upkeep. Many articles of clothing cost half their purchase price for annual maintenance. Whereas some man-made materials save money dollars because of infrequent cleaning or washing of permanent press clothing.

The same is true with food. People often get trapped with the cents-per-pound or ounce labeling of the some 8,000 items in the supermarkets. No matter what a non-nutritious food item or an empty calorie drink costs, it's no bargain. Even with a basic product like milk, it's easy to lose sight of its true value because of price considerations.

Rather than propound the philosophy that milk costs only 14c to 17c a pound (if milk was sold by the pound) or that its "real" price is the 10 minutes of work it takes to earn a half-gallon's worth, it might be better to look at the product itself.

Milk, unlike meats or many vegetables, has no bone or skin or waste materials. And milk is a "must" buy in today's society and a "bargain" for all buyers. It is relevant in today's healthfood era as a natural product that provides vitamins and minerals in a tasty and safe way. Plus, milk is a source of calcium that the body needs daily to grow on, and can't store.

So before you buy, be sure every product is worth its cost. Because even a bargain costs money that could be spent better for worthwhile products. Consider more than the ounces-per-penny or pound, or cost per dress or suit. Evaluate each purchase to keep your budget under control.

Remember, a poor product, or a little-used product, is no bargain no matter what its price.

Shopping Test To Help Offset High Food Prices

"How good a shopper are you?" University of California Home Advisor Sharon Higgins asks shoppers to take this test. Price five pounds of food of equal quality. Price one pound of instant potatoes, one pound corn flakes, one pound crackers, one pound rice, and one pound chile con carne.

Much price variation between different brands and sizes of the same product exists. One shopper choosing the least cost product would spend $1.94, while another shopper could practically double his expenditure on the same amount of food.

Studies indicate that the average grocery shopper spends upward of 10 cents on the dollar unnecessarily each time he or she does the shopping.

According to the Los Angeles County Home Advisor about $4 on a weekly $40 grocery bill can be wasted. Thus, the typical household loses upwards of $200 per year. Why? Because shoppers do not make unit price comparisons or take advantage of unit pricing in supermarkets.

After taking this shopper test, a shopper has a better idea of whether he or she is getting the most economical buy. Shopper price awareness can fight inflation and help shoppers obtain the most economical buys for the shopping dollar. Take the trouble to shop carefully and start to save money too!" said Mrs. Higgins.

Mushrooms Make A Dish Of Their Own

For centuries man has sought out the mysterious fungus called the mushroom to garnish the meat, fish or fowl gracing his table.

But today the mushroom has become more than a mere delicacy to dress up a steak or help stuff a chicken. Chefs recognize it as a delectable food in its own right, and nutritionists say the fungus contains plenty of minerals, a fair amount of vegetable proteins and essential vitamins.

Scientists estimate that there are about 38,000 varieties of mushrooms lurking in shaded nooks in various parts of the world and that more than 700 of them have proven edible.

Only one type of mushroom is cultivated commercially in the United States, an adaptation of the common field variety. But wild mushrooms like the cephe and morel are imported canned or in dried form from France and sold in our fancier food stores.

Unless you are an expert, it is best to buy your mushrooms from the marketplace. If you prefer the imports, most cooks find the dried cepes and morels preferable to the canned variety.

I was a guest recently at the

New York Plaza Club which is perched 50 floors above street level at the foot of Manhattan and provides a dazzling view of New York Harbor.

The chef at the club is obviously a mushroom buff and has an impressive array of recipes. One for creamed mushrooms is vol-au-vent, or feather-light pastry shells, particularly appealing to me. Here is the recipe.

1 ounce dried morels
3 ounces butter
2 ounces flour
6 ounces cream
1/2 ounce sherry wine
1/2 ounce white wine
1/2 ounce brandy
4 ounces chicken stock
1/2 ounce shallots

Paprika, salt, pepper to taste
Soak morels in cold water for 2 1/2 hours. Prepare a roux with butter and flour, adding white wine, sherry and chicken stock and simmering 10 minutes. Separately saute shallots and morels, flame them with brandy and mix with the above sauce, adding salt, pepper and paprika. Pour mushrooms and sauce into pastry shells and serve. Makes four servings. Good with a dry white wine.

Bakeoff Focuses On Family Living

Gourmet recipes and guest-oriented dishes were in the minority at the 24th Bake-Off recipe competition this year. Foods that please the average family came out as top favorites of the thousands of recipes entered in this annual contest sponsored by the Pillsbury Company.

The profile of recipes submitted was one of quality, simplicity, and family appeal, in contrast to entries many years ago when the majority were often fancy deserts, company cakes and recipes that would take more than a day in preparation.

There were no extravagant ingredients. Some were contrived with "on-shelf" foods. Many needed no measuring.

One hundred finalists, chosen from the thousands of recipe entrants, cooked their dishes on the ranges and in the ovens covering the floor of the Beverly Hilton ballroom, competing for the grand prizes of $25,000 and secondary prizes of $5,000 each.

Recipes that are easy to prepare, take little time, and appeal to a family with growing children included favorite flavors such as chocolate, peanut butter, apple, banana, caramel, cheese and honey. These flavors appeared in recipes concocted to fit categories designated as Flour, Frosting and Hot Roll category; Crescent Roll Division, and Savory, Snack and Quick Meal Category.

There were not many recipes using nuts this year, although some had sunflower seeds, natural grains, and granola as ingredients.

Menu suggestions were interesting -- quiche served at breakfast and breakfast pizza, to name two.

But the days of prized company recipes and ideas for entertaining seem to have faded. This year's selections were for foods that can please all the family, keep within the food budget, and take little time in the kitchen.

What were the recipes that proved to be worth $25,000? In case you haven't already checked them through radio, television and over the back fence, here are the results.

A banana cake and pecan bar cookies were the top winners of $25,000 each. Mrs. Ronald Brooks, wife of an astrophysical geophysicist, of Salisbury, Md., combined a cake mix and a frosting mix with rolled oats, sour cream, eggs, butter and

Mrs. Jerome Flieller won the grand prize in the refrigerated dough category with pecan bars which she serves often to her farmer-rancher husband and four teenagers in Floresville, Texas.

BANANA CRUNCH CAKE

5 Tablespoons butter or margarine
1 package Pillsbury Coconut Pecan or Coconut Almond Frosting Mix
1 cup rolled oats
1 cup dairy sour cream
4 eggs
2 large bananas
1 package Pillsbury Yellow Cake mix
Preheat oven to 350° degrees; grease and flour 10-inch tube pan. In saucepan, melt butter; stir in frosting mix and rolled oats until crumbly; set aside. In large bowl blend next 3 ingredients until smooth.

Blend in cake mix; beat 2 minutes at medium speed (high speed with portable mixer). Pour 1/3 of batter (2 cups) into prepared pan. Sprinkle with 1/3 of crumb mixture (1 cup). Repeat twice with batter and crumbs, ending with crumb mixture.

Bake 50 to 60 minutes, until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool upright in pan 15 minutes. Remove from pan and turn cake so crumb mixture is on top.

Makes 10-inch tube cake.
At high altitude -- 5,200 feet: Add 2 tablespoons flour to cake mix. Bake at 375° for 50 to 60 minutes.

QUICK CRESCENT PECAN PIE BARS

8 oz. can Pillsbury Refrigerated Quick Crescent Dinner Rolls
1 Egg, beaten
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1 Tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 375°. Lightly grease 13 by 9 inch pan. Separate crescent dough into two large rectangles. Press rectangles over bottom and 1/2 inch up the sides of prepared pan to form crust; seal perforations. Bake crust at 375° for 5 minutes.

In medium bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Pour over partially baked crust. Bake at 375° for 18 to 22 minutes until golden brown. Cool; cut into bars. Makes 2 dozen bars.

There is no change for baking in high altitude.

CHINO TAKES FIRST

Cavs Lose One, Take Pomona

Montclair took revenge on Pomona Friday in a 6-1 victory. The Cavs were licking the wounds of a 13 hit attack, a 9-1 slaughter by Chino that occurred earlier in the week.

Dan Jones took charge of the victory over Pomona, allowing only three hits. Now 1-0 in league play and 4-0 for the season, he gave up one hit in the second inning and two in the fifth when the Devils scored their only run. Jones fanned five and walked two.

Montclair scored in the first inning on a single by Mike Wolters and two errors. The Cavaliers had a chance to break it open then, but a hit into right field was caught by John Freeman.

In the second, Montclair took three straight hits, a sacrifice fly and single by Dale Biggs to lead 4-0. Pat Proulx, Cavalier shortstop, hit a triple to knock in a run in the third. The run was unearned on an error by the Pomona third baseman.

Biggs finished off the scoring for Montclair with a home run to left. The Red Devils' run came in the fifth on a single by Lambert, a stolen base and a single by Louis Caudillo.

Chino's offense and defense left Montclair with little room to operate in the 9-1 loss. Bruce Richardson started for the Cavs, holding out until the bottom of the second inning when he was hit for six runs and seven hits. The big blow was a three-run homer by Jeff Lampkin, Chino's pitcher.

Mike Mayer started the fireworks with a walk, racing home on Mark Milton's sacrifice bunt when Richardson's throw to first base sailed into the right field corner.

One out later, Randy Hobbs and Chris Melton singled. Scott Richartz singled to score Hobbs and Lampkin. Mike Pollard doubled to drive in the sixth run of the inning. The Cowboys added two more runs off reliever Mike Casela in the third. Milton tripled and Hobbs followed with a RBI single.

Montclair's lone run came in the third on four consecutive singles by Pat Proulx, Mike Wolters, Mike Pittman and Dale Biggs. Chino's final run came in the fifth.

Upland Takes One of Two, Alta Loma Wins Another

Upland High squeaked by Pomona last week on an error, 9-8, then saw their luck fade against Ganesha Friday afternoon, 4-0. Alta Loma is continuing their success story, taking Royal Oak 4-3.

Upland's blank against Ganesha was credited to pitcher Bob Chauk. The Giant thrower allowed only one hit during the contest. Upland's Jim Christensen took the only hit in the first inning.

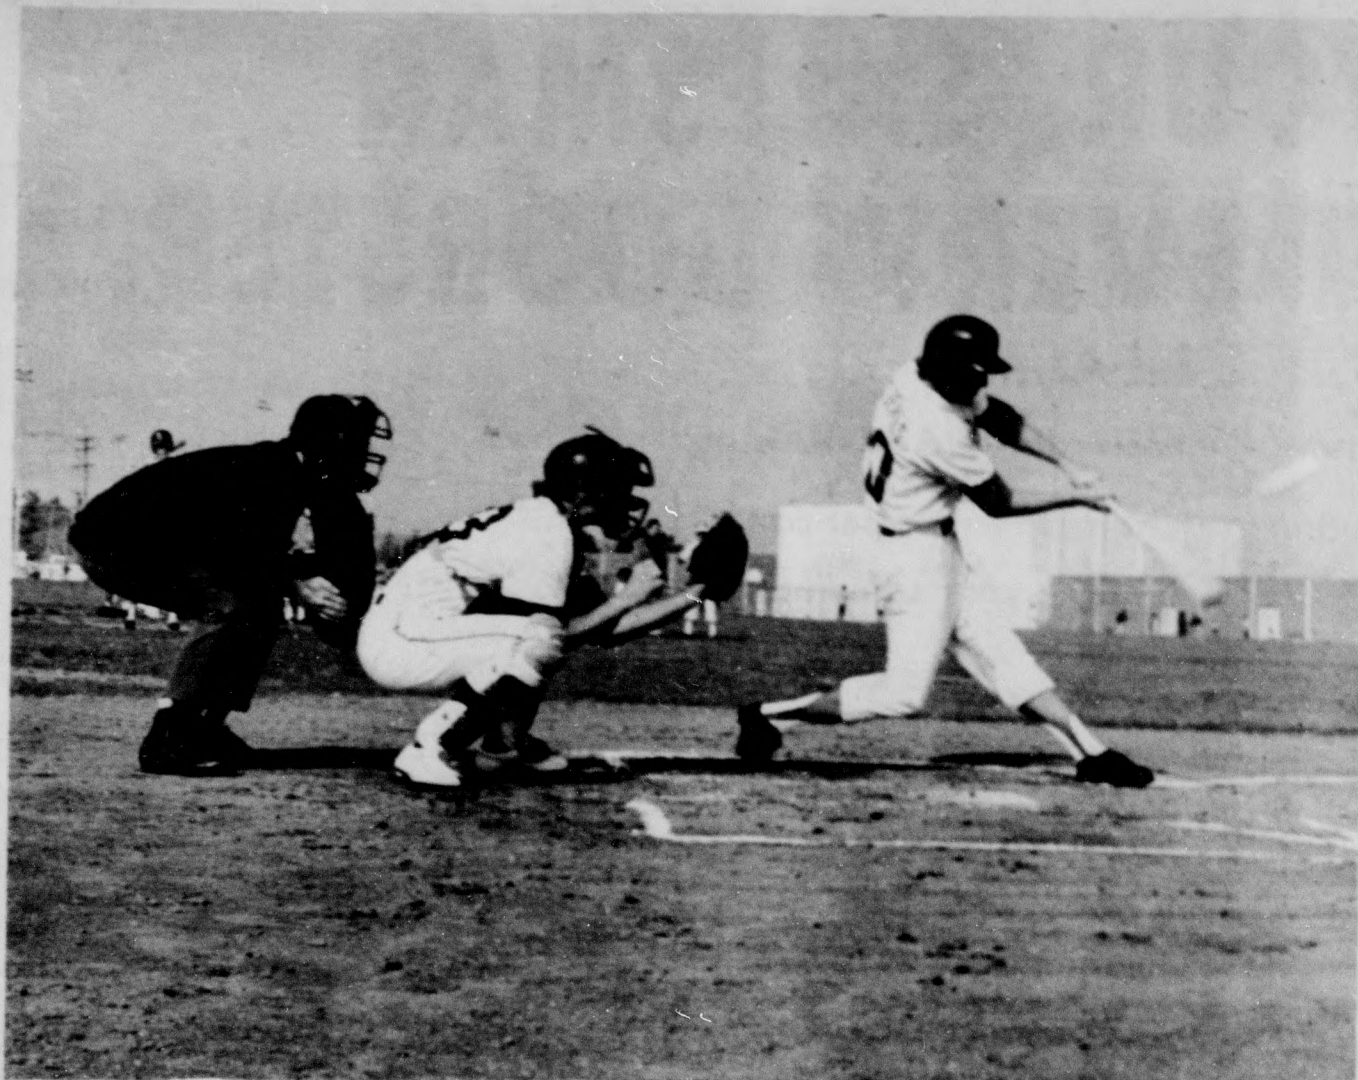

The senior southpaw fanned eight Highlanders and walked only one of the 22 batters he faced. Chauk worked mainly with his change-up and kept ahead of the batters throughout the game. "He has really worked hard," praised Ganesha Coach Garry Norvell. "He doesn't have a blazing fast ball, but he does get good velocity." Chauk provided most of the Ganesha defense, but Cande Rael stole the show offensively.

Cande's triple followed back-to-back singles by Bill Fleming and Roger Slayton plus an infield error on Tracy Cowger's ground ball. The Giant third-baseman's blast floated over Upland right fielder Curt Dockman's head, sending home the three base runners.

Upland's contest with Pomona earlier in the week found Lady Luck somewhere in the field. The see-saw battle, with both teams assuming the lead at different stages of the game, found an error the determining factor.

Pomona High took first blood on two singles by Troy Baird and Keith Thomas.

BASEBALL ILLUSION -- This Pomona player appears to be either meeting the ball or already completing his swing with a line drive. Actually, it was a ground out. Very few hits were seen by Red Devils; Montclair pitcher Dan Jones held the visitors to three hits and one run in a 6-1 victory.

GIANTS UNDEFEATED

Montclair Spikers Lose Third

Montclair lost all hope of taking a track meet from Ganesha last Thursday because of a second place finish. Peter Wilson was the giant for the Giants, finishing second in the 220 yard dash to aid in securing the 67-51 victory.

Entering the final two events, the 220 and the mile relay, the Giants were leading 59-46. The Cavaliers had to win the mile relay and take first and second place in the 220 to upset the league leaders.

Montclair got the needed win in the 220 from Gerald Bryant (23.2), but a second from Ganesha's Wilson and third by Ricky Jackson ended any hope of a Cav comeback from behind victory.

Ganesha went on to win the mile relay with Eric Scott, Alan Moore, Bob Beauchamp and Bob Kramer marking a 3:34.0. Montclair still hasn't won a meet, losing to Chino 61-1/2-56-1/2 and Pomona 74-44. Tuesday's meet with Claremont has been canceled for the Cavs because of rain.

There were several close finishes. Ganesha's Wilson edged Bryant in the 100 yard dash 10.0 to 10.1. Mario Caridinipped the Giants' Glen Harter in the 880 with a time of 2:01.5. The two were neck and neck from the final 220 to the tape where Caridin won via a longer stretch.

Montclair had three individuals turn in fine performances, two of them in the pole vault and the other coming in the high jump.

Scott Echelberger edged teammate Wil Wright in the pole vault on fewer misses, although both cleared 13 feet. Rusty Coronett set a new school record in the high jump with a leap of 6-3, surpassing his own mark of 6 2-1/2 set last year.

Ganesha recorded two sweeps. In the 120 high hurdles, Willie Daniels recorded his second straight with a time of 15.4. Charles Steward and Scott finished second and third.

The Giants also swept the long jump with Cleve Porter winning with a leap of 21 feet. Tony Thomas was second and Scott placed third.

Other Ganesha firsts came in the mile, Pat Stanley taking the event in 4:37.2; Mark Sortillon, the two mile in 10:00.0; Scott in the 180 low hurdles with a 20:6 mark and Jan Parkson took the shot put with a 48-9 effort.

Why Not Try Planting Something New-- Today

Now Is The Time To Plant Roses

If the wet winter deterred you, or you just plain missed out on the bare root planting season, you can still plant roses. Best part is that many of them will be in bloom -- local nurseries have a host of popular varieties available in containers.

Container-grown roses, if not already in bloom, will be very shortly. These were planted last year and will be bursting into bloom enabling gardeners to select the exact shades of color -- and flower forms -- they wish to add to their gardens.

Nurseries will have the 1973 All-American roses Electron, Gypsy and Medallion. This will be the first opportunity for many to see the award-winning roses in bloom. Shopping will reveal a selection of New Year introductions -- and a cross section of roses excellent for California landscapes.

There are hybrid teas, floribundas, grandifloras, and climbers as well as tree roses. Each classification has a unique or special quality. Let it be sufficient to say that there is a rose to fit any garden situation, or location -- just as long as it's a sunny site. Designers utilize roses for their continuous color and the possibilities offered by the various types. Low-growing floribundas, for instance, create a mass planting display -- or a free-flowering border.

Container-grown roses are as easily planted as bare root. Cut the can away and lift out the plant and balled dirt so as not to disturb the roots. Set the plant, dirt ball and all, into the prepared planting hole.

Dig an over-size hole. Incorporate organic material or a ready-to-use planter mix with existing soil as you fill in around the rose. Make sure it will be at the same depth, upon completion, as it was in the nursery container. After planting, water immediately to settle the mixture and the rose in the hole. Create a permanent watering basin around the plant. Water regularly and deeply, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

Wait until the rose is established before feeding it. Your nurseryman can recommend a balanced rose food for you to use -- which will help promote plentiful color in the months ahead.

Gardener's Checklist

1. April is a favorable time to plant new lawns. Your nurseryman can recommend the best type turf for your family needs and can outline planting instructions to insure successful results.

2. Pinch Fuchsias frequently as they grow. This encourages shrubbier growth and more bloom, in that they flower on this new growth.

3. Tuberous Begonia seedlings are available for planting this month. Set them in a soil rich with leaf mold.

4. Set out Dahlia tubers this week and make another planting of Gladiolus bulbs. This will assure you of having more glads for cutting, and provide lovely color in the early summer garden.

5. Plant tomatoes for summer harvest. Be sure the variety you plant is adapted to your local climate.

6. Feed Camellias after they've finished blooming. Your nurseryman can recommend the acid-type plant food to use.

7. Summer-blooming bulbs such as Dahlias, Canna Lilies, and Mexican Shell Flowers (Tigridias) may be planted now. Plant Gladiolus every few weeks -- into early summer -- for a succession of color from these easy-to-grow favorites.

8. Feature dwarf oranges and lemons in tubs on your patio or sunny porch. Nurseries have a good selection of citrus now, and offer the varieties best for local conditions.

9. Most leafy salad vegetables, and many others, as well, are available as nursery transplants for easy transfer to your culinary garden.

10. Use bait or pellets to destroy snails and slugs.

One of the joys of spring seed-planting is to try something new each season. For the price of a few packets of seed this provides a fresh and inexpensive adventure. As usual the seedsmen have been busy, and offer us exciting choices.

Ever try raising geraniums from seed? Of course it is easy to go out and buy a few plants already in bloom. But you can raise the new Carefree hybrids from seed.

Carefrees are so reliable that three colors have already won All-America Selections ratings. They grow fast into strong side-branching plants, bearing heavy flower heads in salmon, pink, scarlet, white, and picotee.

Another new geranium you can raise from seed is Sprinter, a bright red. Earlier, freer blooming, and dwarfier than Carefree, Sprinter adapts well to pot or garden culture.

A whole new concept in coleus is on the seed market this spring called Carefree Coleus. It features an edge described as "oak leaf," quite different from any other so far. It makes a compact bushy plant without pinching, and does well in spots getting two-thirds sun to medium shade.

It is superb as a pot plant. There are eight colors. Pan American Seed Company, a wholesaler, developed the Carefrees. Look for seeds locally or in the mail-order catalogs.

T. Sakata, the Japanese seedsman of Yokohama, is introducing a coleus described as "chocolate with pink center." The outer edges of the leaves are a rich brown with the leaf pattern with-in repeated in a vibrant pink. The plant is medium dwarf with many branches and reaches about 20 inches.

In the dwarf class Sakata has Dwarf Yellow, a soft yellow edged with light green, the leaves extremely long, narrow, and deeply serrated. Dwarf Red is similar but with wider leaves. Several seed companies in the U.S. carry Sakata's seeds.

New among petunias are Pan-American's Dancing Lady and Red Baron. Park's Maxi-Plum and Sweet Bippy, Sakata's Recoverer Scarlet Red, and Jackson & Perkins' Circus (actually a 1972 AAS winner).

Mr. Sakata's is noted for being able to recover after a pelting rain. It grows close to the ground, covered with a mass of bloom. Pan-American's Red Baron also makes a quick comeback after heavy weather, is compact, long lasting, a striking deep red. Dancing Lady is a bicolor, a crimson and white single.

Park's new Maxi adds plum color to the Maxi series of multi-floras -- early, sweet scented, about three inches across. Sweet Bippy is a gorgeous double grandiflora, rose and white ruffling. Seed tapes from Park are available as well as packets.

Jackson & Perkins, the big rose growers, are now also in the seed business. Circus is a double grandiflora splash of salmon-red and white.

There are always new marigolds delightful to add. I like their herby scent, which makes a good protection in the vegetable garden, keeping off harmful insects.

Park's new marigold is Red Dimension, perhaps the largest red-flowered marigold so far. It is a "super-French," growing up to 16 inches, and bears 3-1/2 inch rosettes of deep marigold-red edged with gold. If you prefer odorless ones for flower arrangements Burpee's has a giant-flowered in mixed colors.

Totem Pole Aster, however, leads Burpee's list of new flowers, easy to grow from seed and blooming mid-season. The plants reach two feet, are strong and well branched. This first year only mixed colors are offered -- white, rose-pink, scarlet-cerise, azure-blue, and deep blue. Really exciting in the border. Added to Burpee's border class of asters, about 10 inches tall, is a newcomer, Dwarf Border Rose, ideal for edging and low beds.

New snapdragons are welcome. Again Burpee has introductions. Crimson Supreme is about three feet tall. The "Supremes" are unique for the degree of doubleness and the solidity of the spikes that support heavy trusses of bloom. A second introduction, Wedding Bells, almost as tall, is a hybrid mixture of the bell-flowered type with wide-open throat instead of the traditional snapped florets.

Sakata's Floral Carpet snapdragons are favorites, and this year salmon-rose with a white throat is added to the earlier bronze, orchid, pink, red, white and yellow. The Floral Carpet strain is a miniature cluster plant fine for rock gardens, edging or bedding.

Are you planting vegetables this season? There is a great upsurge of vegetable growing, to help keep down the food budget. Three vegetables from Burpees are added -- Green Arrow Peas, Green Ice Lettuce, and Golden Zucchini Squash.

The pea vines bear four-inch pods holding 10 or more peas, sweet and succulent. As the weather grows warmer, mulch the vines to keep them bearing longer. Green Ice Lettuce, an entirely new leaf lettuce, has dark green, crispy fringed and wavy leaves. It makes a good tossed salad, a pretty garnish, and is tasty in sandwiches. It defies summer heat and can be sowed again from mid to late summer.

The squash has shiny cylindrical fruits, yellow instead of the usual zucchini dark green, with a rich buttery flavor. The bush-type plants take up little space considering the heavy yield.

There are other new varieties of flowers and vegetables you can raise from seed. Look for them in the front pages of your mail-order nursery catalogs. Even though you continue to plant your favorite "musts," you will find it refreshing to add something new.

It Beats Jogging: Gardening For Health

America is exercise conscious today. There are joggers in great numbers, and mass numbers of people riding bicycles, and countless Californians are engaged in daily exercises. The devotees are exercising for health's sake, pursuing stronger and healthier bodies -- and peace of mind.

There are many ways to promote good health, but from a physical standpoint, athletic types as well as non-athletes have long expounded gardening as a healthful hobby. In a recent survey conducted by the American Medical Association, it was found that 47 percent (137,500) of the doctors polled used gardening to keep their health and sanity. Among the doctors, gardening topped all other hobbies and sports. It stands to reason that these professional people tell certain of their patients how to stay healthy and relax -- through a hobby of gardening.

Results of psychological tests, relative to hobbies, personality traits and life habits, associate a general feeling of relaxation and inner peace among people who pursue gardening in one form or another. Psychologists agree gardening seems to promote such feelings and certainly a relaxed, contented person is a more healthy one.

Again, from a physical standpoint, gardening may not require the muscular activity and coordination needed for vigorous exercising, but it does provide a moderate amount of exercise which promotes a healthier body.

Conversely, there are individuals who shy away from gardening because they feel it is too strenuous and tiring. One needn't choose the more rigorous forms of gardening, suggests the California Association of Nurserymen. Gardening offers many diversified activities so that the amateur, spare-time gardener, or health-seeker can easily select the program which will afford him the exercise and enjoyment he seeks.

Bringing Nature Indoors

There is a plant population explosion going on in America. Plants grown for indoor use have never been more popular. From a designer's viewpoint, plants are used to ease the transition between indoors and out. From the plant fancier's viewpoint, they are used to create a natural environment, while serving as refreshing decorations.

Your local nurseryman can be of assistance in satisfying your interest, and nature, itself, lends a helpful hand in the selection process. There are countless plants, shrubs, and trees which require different amounts of care, and time to tend them. It's possible to select the plants which will provide exactly the desired amount of exercise, and hobby that is both relaxing -- and healthful.

Agriculture Close As Your Back Yard

Agriculture is California's largest so-called "industry." Readers in metropolitan San Francisco, or suburban Los Angeles, may have difficulty in relating to "agriculture." Certainly, at the supermarket it is easy to recognize the importance of agriculture in our lives -- and to recognize the role agriculture plays in satisfying consumer needs.

Agriculture plays many other roles, and fulfills more needs than are evident when the consumer is buying food and fiber. Yet, the city dweller can't conceive the scope or importance of what that entity, "agriculture," is. Whether it's San Francisco, Newport Beach, San Diego, Oakland, San Jose, or downtown Burbank, agriculture is as close as your back yard, the flower bed or wherever there is a tree or shrub -- even in an apartment window box.

Horticulture is very much a part of agriculture. Individuals involved in producing and selling ornamental plants for home gardens are members of a billion-dollar industry in America -- and making significant contributions to the appearance of homes, cities and the nation. The U.S. nursery industry is the world's largest, just as the California nursery industry is the largest such entity in America.

In California, nursery crops rank ninth largest among 200-plus livestock and crop commodities. In 1969, more than $124 million (farm value) in nursery crops were produced in California and in 1971 the figure approached the $140 million mark. Total production increased over 34 percent in the past five years. This does not include the closely-related floriculture industry -- California growers of cut flowers produced over $83 million in 1971.

Retail-wise, Californians do take advantage of the favorable climate and four-season gardening opportunities, and they do like to surround themselves with beauty. An estimated half billion dollars a year are spent annually through retail garden outlets and florists.

There are many types of nurseries, whether retail or production-type operations. On each side are one-man operations, as well as firms which require scores of personnel on their staffs. Some nursery growers require up to 500 employees at the peak of their productive season. Basically, the industry is made up of small business operations. There is no such thing as an "average" nurseryman or nursery. The closest thing to a composite would be that he is a small businessman with five to 25 full-time employees and also requires a limited number of part-time seasonal help.

The California nursery industry is complex. Whereas many agricultural crops become available on the market at specific, or harvest times, most plant materials -- nursery crops -- are harvested 12 months of the year. Most plants are readily available throughout the year at any given time. There are, of course, exceptions, but this is especially true of the myriad trees and shrubs for home garden use -- plant materials which provide beauty and enjoyment for all who view them.

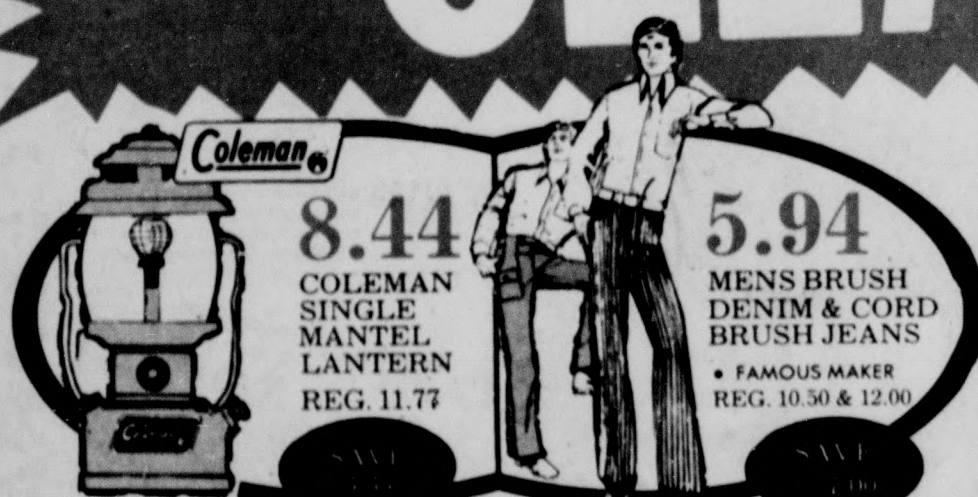

SALMON PINK -- Among the new roses for 1973 is the floribunda, Sonoma, a compact grower that produces profusions of deep pink buds which open to salmon pink. Named for the California Mission in Sonoma, which is observing its 150th year, the rose is good for border situations and for use as a low-to-medium edging in the garden.
